

Romanus extitit . . . / . . . [Expl.]: (fol. 191v) His prelibatis pauca in ordine de commento Remigii parvulis legenda capere disposui.

Commentum. [Inc.]: (fol. 181v) O Hiemenee dicens (Dick 3.13). Himeneus dicitur membrana in qua fiunt puerperia, et proprie muliebris sexus . . . / . . . [Expl.]: (fol. 190v) A ludo verbo venit ludicrum. Est autem ludicra res lusui apta. Hinc Virgilius: "Neque enim levia aut ludicra petuntur praemia" (Gloss: ludicra, Dick 80.9, C.

Lutz, ed., Remigii Autissiodorensis, Commentum in Martianum Capellam, Libri I-II [Leiden, 1962], 209.21-24).

The remainder of the Zwettl manuscript contains an accessus to Boethius, Philosophiae consolatio, with a commentary on Book III, m. 9; Bernard of Utrecht, Commentum in Theodolum (see below); and a gloss on Plato, Timaeus (trad. Calcidius) 36A (ed. Waszink 28.3).

PS. THEODOLUS.

BY HAIJO J. WESTRA

CTC II, 387

Add the following (incomplete) manuscript. Zwettl, Stiftsbibliothek, ms. 313.

Introduction. [Inc.]: (fol. 191v) Liber equivoce dicitur. Nam liber dicitur pargamentum cum notulis . . . / . . . [Expl.] (fol. 192) Fabula autem aut est ysopica, id est mutua verba finguntur inter se sermocinaria (ed. R. B. C. Huygens [1970], 58-63, 130; see also the complete edition by Huygens in Biblioteca degli Studi medievali, VIII [Spoleto, 1977]).

(S. Rössler, "Verzeichniss der Handschriften der Bibliothek des Stiftes Zwettl," Xenia Bernardina, pt. 2, I, 406-7.) The Stiftsbibliothek is in the process of preparing a new manuscript catalogue.